Come Write In* Event in November at the Springfield Library The Event Is Part of National Novel Writing Month

November is National Novel Writing Month (NaNoWriMo) and the Eugene/Lane County chapter invites you to write a novel—in one month! On Saturday, November 12, 2011 from 12:30-4:30pm, the Springfield Library is hosting a Come Write In event. Bring your writing tools and we'll provide refreshments and free WiFi. Local organizers for NaNoWriMo will share writing exercises and inspiration to help you meet your goal. Visit www.nanowrimo.org to find out more about National Novel Writing Month.

The Come Write In event is for those in high school and adults. For younger writers, visit www.nanowrimo.org/en/ywp for specific information about the Young Writers Program.

For more information on National Novel Writing Month, or to speak to NaNoWriMo participants in your area, visit www.nanowrimo.org or contact press@nanowrimo.org. The Office of Letters and Light is a California-based international non-profit organization. Its programs are the largest literary events in the world. Learn more at www.lettersandlight.org.
