ELECTRICITY MONITORS AVAILABLE AT THE SPRINGFIELD PUBLIC LIBRARY

Knowledge is Power!

The public can now check out energy meters from the Springfield Public Library. The meters allow users to easily monitor the amount and cost of running 120 volt household appliances and devices, such as TVs, game stations, lamps and kitchen appliances. They measure energy consumption and automatically calculate energy costs based on current Springfield Utility Board (SUB) rates. SUB donated the meters to the library as a way for people to monitor and reduce their energy use. SUB recommends calling its Conservation Connection at 541-746-0963 to learn more ways to cut energy use. Library patrons can check out a monitor at no charge, and keep it for three weeks.
