NATIVE STORYTELLING AT THE LIBRARY

“A Year of Stories” event for all ages

The Springfield Library presents Native American storyteller Esther Stutzman on Saturday, November 7, 2015 at 3:00. This is part of our “A Year of Stories” programming sponsored by the Lane County Cultural Coalition.

Ms. Stutzman is a Native American storyteller, a role that was passed through the generations of her family. She learned stories from her grandmother who was over 100 when she died. Her family was very traditional, and kept the knowledge of the old ways. Esther’s heritage is Yoncalla/Kalapuya and Coos and she is an enrolled member of the Confederated Tribes of Siletz. She lives in Yoncalla and has worked in schools for over 30 years doing programs in storytelling, music and dance.

All ages are welcome to attend. This event is free and will be held in the Children’s Window Corner.

What: Native storyteller Esther Stutzman

When: Saturday, November 7, 2015 at 3 pm
